

SOLUTION BRIEF:

Power Government Operations with Zebra Rugged Mobility and Stratix Managed Services

Government agencies operate in some of the most demanding environments—supporting public safety, maintaining infrastructure, delivering critical services, and responding to emergencies in real time. To keep operations running efficiently, agencies need reliable, secure, and purpose-built mobile technology that performs in the field, not just in the office.

That's why Zebra's rugged mobile technology, paired with Stratix managed mobility services, is the ideal solution for modern government operations—delivering the performance, durability, and visibility agencies need to serve communities more effectively.

Move Beyond Consumer Devices with Zebra Rugged Technology

Unlike consumer-grade devices, Zebra mobile computers are purpose-built for mission-critical government workflows—from patrol vehicles and roadside inspections to utilities and field service environments.

Zebra devices are engineered to perform where government work happens:

Rugged durability

Built to withstand drops, vibration, weather, and extreme conditions while maintaining consistent performance

Advanced data capture

Integrated barcode scanning, RFID, and imaging enable fast, accurate data collection in the field

High-performance processing

Powerful platforms support demanding applications and real-time workflows

Secure, always-on connectivity

Support for 5G, Wi-Fi 6E, and secure communications ensures continuous access to critical systems

Purpose-built ergonomics

Designed for extended use in vehicles, outdoor environments, and frontline roles

These capabilities allow government workers to capture, access, and act on data instantly, improving decision-making and operational efficiency across agencies.

Zebra is Even Better with Stratix Managed Mobility Services

Deploying and managing mobile technology at scale across distributed government agencies is complex. Stratix simplifies it with end-to-end managed mobility services designed for mission-critical environments.

Stratix Services Include:
